Any additional training needs: Absolutely none; these boys are complete gentlemen of the very highest order. They are gentle, polite, obedient and don't even bark when someone knocks on the door. Don't mistake that for being dull – definitely not, they play and cuddle and do all things Frenchie (including sitting on the sofa) but are just wonderful boys. I could wax lyrical about these boys forever, they really did get to me with their looks, their temperaments and	Type of home needed: One that will accept BOTH boys; this will not double the adoption fee, it will be one fee only. One boy has hemi-vertebrae that has caused some paralysis of his back legs and happened a while ago (at the base of his spine, we will have vet notes). There is no incontinence though, it is stable and causes him no pain. He has been x-rayed and the vet has recommended no further action. He still gets around, he is just a bit wobbly on the back legs but the musculature is still good to support them. He has a
