Any additional training needs: This lad is soooo handsome with a very beautiful solid head, like an anvil! He is very well-mannered. He has no known training needs, as he is a good lad, but he has had some infrequent idiopathic epileptic incidents (meaning there is no reasonable explanation), which manifest as mild head tremors. He is not medicated for these and investigations in a previous foster home came up with nothing obvious that could cause these, and no seizures have occurred. We had hoped the one had initially was a one-off, but he has now had another (2 in 6 weeks, that do not last long and cause no other side-effects)	Type of home needed: Duroc can live in a family home very happily. He is a lovely companion, cuddly and playful. We will discuss the full implications of the head tremors but these are not giving any cause for concern.
If the fosterer decides to adopt this dog at the end of the foster period, the fee will be:	£450
